“On average,
children ask nearly 300 questions
per day.”

-Garry Kibble, Littlewoods

Do you ever wonder if your children will run out of questions to ask you?

Age and gender play a significant role in the number of questions children ask. For example, research shows that 4-year-old girls are the most curious, asking an unbelievable 390 questions per day (averaging a question every one minute and 56 seconds!).

Children tend to ask more questions during their first few years than any other period in their lives.

During this period of rapid brain growth, children's curiosity helps them develop their critical thinking, vocabulary and communication skills.
